Sportsmen of Two States Are Working Toward This End - Meeting Tonight.

for the betterment of the fishing and nunting sport could be brought together under one head, the intermountain country would surely have an organization to boast of. Here in Salt Lake the fisher-men have got together and formed an organization for just this purpose. An-other such organization is now being formed in Idaho with headquarters at Pocatello. In addition to this the several duck clubs of Utah and Idaho are to a duck clubs of Utah and Idaho are to a certain extent organized to protect the ducks and keep them from being exterminated. Every other sportsman one meets nowadays talks along the same line, and it seems as if there should be some plan whereby all of these interests could be amalgamated for the one great caues, the preservation of fish and game.

A meeting of the newly-organized fish A meeting of the newly-organized fish and game protective association for Utah has been called for this evening at the Commercial club. President Schefski urges that all interested in the preservation of fish and game attend this meeting and attach their names to the charter list, which already numbers over 100. The election of vice presidents for the organization will also come up at this meeting.

Pocatello Man Busy.

Meanwhile the newly-organized Idaho-Utah interstate sportsmen's association is getting busy. This association, while it also hopes to better the sport of trap shooting, also will aid in the protection of fish and game, in common with the Utah association. Secretary Fred J. Barnes of this organization has sent out a circular letter to prominent sportsmen circular letter to prominent sportsmer of the two states which in part is as fol-
